CLINICAL FOCUS

A significant part of Dr. Ghaffari's practice concerns lower respiratory tract infections. He evaluates and treats patients with bronchitis and pneumonia, where the assessment typically involves reviewing symptoms, clinical findings and available laboratory or imaging results in order to identify the likely cause of the infection and select an appropriate course of treatment.

Dr. Ghaffari also sees patients with sexually transmitted infections, including syphilis and HPV. Consultations in this area cover testing, interpretation of results, treatment where indicated, and counseling on prevention and follow-up. He manages patients with hepatitis, where assessment and ongoing monitoring depend on the type of hepatitis and the individual patient's findings, and he treats shingles, which most often...
