CLINICAL FOCUS

A large part of Dr. Körçeğez's work concerns the first months and years of life. He provides newborn follow-up, including newborn screening tests, and treats neonatal jaundice. He also assesses and manages infant colic, and he monitors childhood nutritional disorders, including iron deficiency and anemia in children.

Dr. Körçeğez also diagnoses and treats pediatric infectious diseases, with particular attention to upper respiratory tract illnesses in children, which are among the most frequent reasons families seek pediatric care.
