CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Akyüz's area of expertise is digestive system diseases and digestive system surgery. This covers conditions affecting the organs of the digestive tract that may require surgical assessment or treatment. Evaluation typically begins with a review of the patient's history, symptoms, and existing investigations, followed by a decision on whether surgery is appropriate, whether further diagnostic work is needed, or whether a...

In addition to digestive system surgery, he handles general surgical conditions within the scope of the General Surgery unit. For each patient, the surgical plan is developed according to individual clinical findings, overall health status, and the results of any imaging or laboratory tests.
