CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Akçay's areas of expertise are medical pathology, tissue examination and cytological assessment. In tissue examination, samples obtained during diagnostic or surgical procedures are processed in the laboratory and studied under the microscope to identify changes in cell structure and tissue architecture.

Cytological assessment involves the evaluation of individual cells or small groups of cells, for example cells collected from body fluids or other sampling procedures, rather than intact tissue. Findings from both approaches are communicated to the referring physician, who considers them together with the patient's history, clinical examination and imaging.
