CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Kaytaz's clinical work covers four related areas of ear, nose and throat practice. Endoscopic sinus surgery and sinus surgery more broadly concern disorders of the nose and paranasal sinuses that may be considered for surgical treatment when appropriate; endoscopic techniques use a thin camera passed through the nostrils rather than external incisions.

Whether a particular procedure is suitable depends on the individual patient's diagnosis, symptoms, prior treatments and overall health. Dr. Kaytaz reviews each case on its own terms, and the options discussed at consultation may include non-surgical management as well as surgical treatment. Any decision about treatment is made together with the patient after the relevant findings have been reviewed.
