CLINICAL FOCUS

A large part of Dr. Kalkan's work is preventive and developmental. She performs well-child examinations at the recommended ages, administers childhood vaccinations according to the immunization schedule, and provides growth and development monitoring, tracking weight, height and developmental milestones over time so that any deviation...

Dr. Kalkan also evaluates and treats the acute and chronic conditions most frequently seen in pediatric practice. These include acute respiratory infections and fever in children, where careful history taking and examination help determine whether the illness is likely to be self-limiting or requires further investigation.
