CLINICAL FOCUS

A substantial part of Dr. Seydaliyeva's practice concerns infections of the lower respiratory tract. She assesses and manages adults with bronchitis and pneumonia, including patients whose symptoms have not settled with initial treatment or who need further evaluation to establish the likely cause of the infection.

Dr. Seydaliyeva also cares for patients with viral infections that require longer-term monitoring. She sees patients with hepatitis and HIV/AIDS, providing assessment, follow-up and treatment planning in line with each patient's clinical picture. She manages shingles (herpes zoster) and advises adults on vaccination.
