CLINICAL FOCUS

A substantial part of Dr. Zamanov's work concerns the care of newborns. This includes newborn screening tests and structured newborn follow-up, the evaluation and management of neonatal jaundice, and the use of phototherapy where it is clinically indicated.

Beyond the neonatal period, Dr. Zamanov provides well-child care, which involves monitoring growth and development at each stage of childhood and addressing routine health questions. He also evaluates and treats pediatric upper respiratory tract illnesses, which are among the most common reasons children are brought to a pediatrician.
