CLINICAL FOCUS

A central part of Dr. Şen's practice is joint replacement. He performs hip replacement surgery and knee replacement surgery for patients whose joint damage, often related to osteoarthritis or other joint diseases, is no longer adequately managed with non-surgical measures.

He also treats knee injuries and sports injuries, including meniscus tears and muscle tears, and manages osteoporosis as it relates to bone health and fracture risk. In trauma care he uses minimally invasive surgical techniques where the pattern of injury allows. His work in the treatment of movement disorders addresses limitations in movement and function that arise from orthopedic conditions.
