CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Koç's practice covers the core areas of family medicine. He provides primary care for patients presenting with acute illnesses, assessing their symptoms, arranging appropriate investigations and starting treatment where this is indicated. Preventive care and general health assessment form another part of his work.

A further focus is chronic disease management: the structured follow-up of long-term conditions, including monitoring, review of ongoing medication and coordination with other specialties when a problem calls for more focused expertise. Family medicine consultations at both sites are open to patients with a wide range of concerns, from a single acute complaint to a broader review of overall health.
