CLINICAL FOCUS

A significant part of Dr. Koncay's practice involves the care of newborns. This includes newborn screening tests, newborn follow-up and the assessment and management of neonatal jaundice. He also follows babies born prematurely, including those with bronchopulmonary dysplasia, a lung condition that may affect premature infants and requires monitoring over time.

Dr. Koncay also manages common conditions of infancy and childhood, such as infant colic, childhood rash illnesses and upper respiratory tract infections in children. He provides childhood vaccinations in line with the recommended schedule and has a clinical interest in pediatric infectious diseases.
