CLINICAL FOCUS

Betül Yıldızlı's clinical interests include hearing loss in adults and pediatric hearing loss. She performs audiometry, which measures how well a person hears sounds at different pitches and volumes, and BERA (ABR) testing, an objective test that records the response of the hearing nerve and brainstem to sound.

Her role is diagnostic and supportive: she guides patients through the testing procedures, explains what each test involves, and provides results that the referring physician uses when discussing next steps. Where a patient's evaluation relates to more advanced hearing rehabilitation, general information on this site about cochlear implant treatment may be a useful starting point, although any decision about such treatment is...
