CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Can evaluates and manages a broad range of internal medicine conditions, with a particular interest in endocrine and metabolic disorders. His areas of expertise include the treatment of pituitary disorders, thyroid diseases, type 1 diabetes, prediabetes, and the diagnosis and treatment of metabolic diseases.

A further part of his practice is chronic disease management and geriatric health, which involves ongoing follow-up of long-term conditions in older adults. He also carries out health check-ups and healthy living assessments for patients who wish to review their general health status.
