CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Tak's practice covers the broad scope of family medicine, with particular attention to preventive care and the assessment of ongoing symptoms in the context of a patient's overall health and lifestyle. She provides smoking cessation treatment for nicotine and other addictive substances, drawing on her certified training and her experience in a dedicated smoking cessation outpatient clinic.

Each of these applications is offered on the basis of an individual clinical assessment, and suitability is discussed with the patient before any treatment is proposed.
