CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Eroğlu's areas of expertise are clinical microbiology, infectious diseases and microbiology laboratory diagnostics. In the laboratory setting, his work involves the microbiological examination of patient samples to help identify the organisms that may be responsible for an infection and to support the treating physician in choosing an appropriate course of management.

His background as an infectious diseases specialist informs how laboratory findings are read and reported. Microbiology laboratory diagnostics can be relevant across many clinical areas; for example, this site has a separate page on neuroinfectious diseases treatment, where laboratory testing forms part of the overall diagnostic approach.
