CLINICAL FOCUS

A significant part of Dr. Akbenlioğlu's practice is dedicated to the newborn period. He carries out newborn follow-up visits and evaluates newborn jaundice, monitoring the infant's condition over the first days and weeks and explaining to parents what to observe at home.

Dr. Akbenlioğlu also manages childhood infectious diseases, including upper respiratory tract infections, which are among the most frequent reasons for a pediatric visit. He evaluates iron deficiency and anemia in children, typically through a review of symptoms, diet and laboratory findings, followed by treatment and monitoring where indicated.
