CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Yavrucu's clinical work covers a range of conditions that commonly bring infants and young children to a pediatrician. In the first months of life these include lactose intolerance in infants, infant colic and gas pain, which are assessed through the child's history, feeding pattern and a clinical examination.

Her practice further includes urinary and kidney-related complaints in childhood, such as hematuria and urinary incontinence in children, as well as upper respiratory tract illnesses, which are among the most frequent reasons for pediatric visits. Dr.
