CLINICAL FOCUS

A central part of Dr. Öztürk's practice is the assessment and management of infections in adults. This includes communicable diseases and sexually transmitted infections, where evaluation is based on the patient's history, symptoms and relevant laboratory findings. She also sees patients with lower respiratory tract infections, including bronchitis and pneumonia.

Travel health and adult vaccination are further areas of her work. Patients planning travel, or those who wish to review their vaccination status, can be assessed for infection risks relevant to their situation. In addition, Dr. Öztürk works in the field of functional medicine and longevity applications, where the evaluation considers the patient's overall health status alongside any specific infectious disease concerns.
