CLINICAL FOCUS

The clinical work of Dr. Göktaş concentrates on three connected areas: inpatient medical assessment, hospital treatment follow-up, and inpatient care coordination. Inpatient medical assessment involves evaluating the condition of patients after admission, reviewing their history, current symptoms, and available test results, and identifying medical needs that may arise during the hospital stay.

Inpatient care coordination refers to the role of an inpatient clinic physician as a point of medical continuity on the ward. Hospitalized patients are frequently seen by several specialists and departments, and Dr. Göktaş helps bring these elements together so that the patient's care remains organized and consistent throughout the admission.
