CLINICAL FOCUS

A large part of Dr. Alagöz's practice is general pediatric care: well-child follow-up, newborn follow-up, newborn screening tests and pediatric nutrition monitoring. These visits are used to assess growth and development at each age, review feeding and nutrition, and identify concerns that may need further evaluation.

Her areas of expertise further include childhood iron deficiency and anemia, where assessment typically involves reviewing the child's history, diet and laboratory results before deciding on treatment and follow-up, and pediatric urinary incontinence, which is evaluated in the context of the child's age, development and any related...
