CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Etit's work is in diagnostic pathology. This is the laboratory-based discipline in which tissue samples, such as biopsies and surgical specimens, are prepared, examined under the microscope and interpreted in order to establish or clarify a diagnosis.

Her areas of expertise include tissue specimen examination and laboratory specimen interpretation. In practice this involves assessing the structure and cellular features of a sample, correlating these findings with the clinical information provided by the referring physician and communicating the results in a written report.
