CLINICAL FOCUS

A central part of Dr. Mutlu's work is the emergency assessment of trauma. Patients who present after accidents or injuries are evaluated with attention to their immediate condition, and the findings guide the next steps in care. He also has a professional interest in environmental emergencies, a group of conditions that arise from exposure to the surrounding environment.

Dr. Mutlu's interests further extend to insect bites and stings. Bee stings can range from a localized reaction to a more widespread response, and emergency assessment aims to identify patients whose symptoms require closer observation. Tick bites are evaluated with attention to the bite site and to any associated symptoms that a patient reports.
