CLINICAL FOCUS

A central part of Elifnur Sular's work is psychological assessment. This generally involves gathering information about a patient's background, current concerns and day-to-day functioning, in order to form a clearer picture of what the patient is experiencing. The findings of an assessment are discussed with the patient and help to guide the choice of an appropriate care approach.

She also provides psychological support and psychology consultations. Support sessions offer patients a structured setting in which to talk through difficulties, develop an understanding of their situation and consider ways of coping. Psychology consultations may be a single meeting to clarify a concern or the starting point for a longer period of care;
