CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Bozkırlı sees adults with a range of endocrine and metabolic conditions. A significant part of his practice involves obesity and insulin resistance, where assessment typically considers weight history, metabolic laboratory findings, and any related conditions before a management plan is discussed.

In addition, Dr. Bozkırlı manages patients with acromegaly, a pituitary condition caused by excess growth hormone, which calls for careful hormonal evaluation and ongoing monitoring. More broadly, his areas of expertise include hormonal disorders and metabolic disorders.
