CLINICAL FOCUS

The core of Dr. Kisa's work is anesthesia for patients undergoing medical and surgical procedures. In anesthesiology and reanimation, this involves evaluating a patient before a procedure, considering the patient's medical history and current condition, and planning an anesthetic approach that is appropriate for the planned intervention.

His practice also covers perioperative care, meaning the care of a patient around the time of a procedure, from preparation beforehand to recovery afterwards. This includes attention to the patient's safety and comfort as the effects of anesthesia wear off.
