CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Mirçık's clinical interests cover the main cross-sectional imaging methods used in diagnostic radiology. Magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) and computed tomography (CT) are used to assess a wide range of conditions across the body, and his published work includes the application of MRI sequences in the follow-up of patients after...

He also has an interest in CT colonography, also known as virtual colonoscopy, a CT-based method of examining the large bowel, and in virtual angiography, in which blood vessels are evaluated from CT or MRI data rather than by catheter-based imaging.
