CLINICAL FOCUS

A significant part of Dr. İsmail's practice is oncological surgery of the digestive system. He assesses and treats patients with liver cancer, gallbladder and bile duct cancers, and colorectal cancer. His work in gastroenterological surgery and colorectal surgery includes the surgical evaluation of conditions affecting the colon and rectum, and he also performs endoscopy as part of diagnostic assessment and follow-up.

Dr. İsmail also focuses on coloproctological surgery, including hemorrhoid treatment and the treatment of other anorectal diseases. In endocrine surgery, his areas of expertise include thyroid surgery. Patients referred for these conditions can expect a structured surgical assessment, a discussion of the available treatment options and a care plan that reflects the findings of the examination and any previous treatments.
