CLINICAL FOCUS

A substantial part of Dr. Ozmen's clinical work involves everyday pediatric complaints. Pediatric constipation is one of them: she reviews the child's bowel habits, diet, and general development in order to distinguish functional constipation from less common causes and to plan a suitable approach together with the family. Upper respiratory tract infections in children are another frequent reason for consultation.

Dr. Ozmen also sees children with rash illnesses. These include chickenpox, measles, rubella, and scarlet fever, conditions in which the appearance and distribution of the rash, together with fever and other accompanying symptoms, guide the diagnosis. Because several of these infections can look similar in their early stages, a careful history and clinical examination are central to her assessment.

INTERNATIONAL PATIENTS

Dr. Ozmen consults in Turkish and English, and interpreters can be arranged for families who speak other languages. Before a visit, the Acibadem international patient team coordinates the collection of prior reports and imaging, such as laboratory results, X-ray or ultrasound reports, and discharge summaries, and arranges appointments and the hospital visit itself.
