CLINICAL FOCUS

A large part of Dr. Gülüm's work involves surgical procedures in the mouth and jaw. These include routine tooth extraction and the removal of impacted teeth, which may be considered when a tooth has not erupted normally and is causing symptoms or affecting neighboring teeth. She also performs cyst surgery in the jaw. For patients who wish to replace missing teeth, she places dental implants;

Dr. Gülüm also manages temporomandibular joint disorders and trismus, a restriction in opening the mouth. For patients with teeth grinding, her treatment options include Botox applications and night guards. The choice of approach is discussed with each patient after assessment, and not every option is suitable for every patient.
