CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Koç's practice is dedicated to perinatology and the care of high-risk pregnancies. This includes the evaluation of maternal conditions that may affect a pregnancy, the monitoring of fetal development and well-being, and the planning of follow-up for pregnancies in which the mother, the fetus or both need closer observation.

Obstetric ultrasound is a central part of his work and is used to examine fetal anatomy and growth and to guide the follow-up of pregnancies identified as high risk. Dr. Koç has co-authored peer-reviewed publications on topics related to his field, including antenatal corticosteroid administration in preterm fetuses, long-term outcomes...
