CLINICAL FOCUS

A central part of Dr. Genç's practice is the treatment of hemorrhoids and other anorectal diseases, including anal fissure. Patients with these conditions are assessed on the basis of their symptoms and clinical findings, and the available treatment options are discussed with them before any decision is made.

Dr. Genç's expertise further includes the surgical management of cholecystitis, inflammation of the gallbladder, as well as thyroid surgery and mastectomy. In each of these areas, the choice between conservative management and an operation, and the type of operation if one is needed, depends on the individual patient's diagnosis, general...
