CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Coşkun's work concentrates on the assessment and management of patients who present with urgent and time-sensitive conditions. A central part of his practice is trauma, where the initial evaluation aims to identify injuries that may not be immediately apparent and to establish priorities for further care.

A further area of interest is environmental emergencies. These include drowning, insect stings, and tick bites, where the clinical picture can range from mild local reactions to more serious systemic effects. In these situations, emergency evaluation typically focuses on the patient's current symptoms, the circumstances of the exposure or injury, and the identification of features that may indicate a more severe course.
