CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Köksal's professional focus is clinical laboratory medicine and clinical microbiology. Laboratory medicine covers the analysis of blood, body fluids and other samples to help identify or rule out disease, monitor a known condition and follow the effect of treatment.

In practice, this means that Dr. Köksal supports diagnostic evaluation for patients who are seen in many different departments of the hospital. A physician who suspects an infection or another condition may request laboratory testing; the laboratory processes the samples, and the findings are reported back so that the responsible doctor can discuss them with the patient and decide on the next step.
