CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Şimşek's practice centers on anesthesiology and reanimation. This includes planning and delivering anesthesia for surgical procedures and monitoring patients through the operative period. A particular area of interest is regional anesthesia, in which anesthetic techniques are directed at a specific region of the body;

Preoperative assessment forms an important part of his work. Before surgery, he reviews the patient's medical history, current medications, previous anesthetic experiences and relevant test results in order to identify factors that may influence the anesthetic plan.
