CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Apaydin's practice covers a range of infectious conditions that international patients commonly seek advice on. She evaluates and manages shingles, a reactivation of the varicella-zoster virus that may cause a painful rash and, in some cases, lingering nerve pain.

Her work also includes lower respiratory tract infections, such as infections of the airways and lungs, and the broader field of communicable diseases, which involves diagnosing infections, considering how they spread and advising on measures to limit transmission. In addition, Dr.
