CLINICAL FOCUS

A central part of Dr. Helvacioğlu's practice is cardiopulmonary rehabilitation, which is concerned with planning and supporting cardiovascular recovery in patients with heart disease. Alongside this, she evaluates and follows patients with heart failure, a condition in which ongoing assessment, medication review and rehabilitation planning are typically considered together.

Her areas of expertise also include rhythm disorders such as atrial fibrillation and other arrhythmias, as well as structural and valve-related conditions, including heart valve disease, aortic stenosis, rheumatic heart disease and atrial septal defect. In addition, she assesses patients with atherosclerosis and low blood pressure.
