CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Kılıç's areas of expertise are clinical laboratory services, medical biochemistry and biochemical assessment. Clinical biochemistry is a laboratory discipline concerned with measuring chemical substances in body fluids and interpreting the results in a clinical context.

Biochemical assessment of this kind is used at many stages of care, including initial evaluation, monitoring of treatment and follow-up. Dr. Kılıç contributes to this process as part of the wider care team, and her involvement typically supports the physician who orders the tests rather than replacing a clinical consultation.
