CLINICAL FOCUS

Headache is one of the most common reasons patients are referred to a neurologist, and a large part of Dr. Almak's work involves the assessment of headache disorders, including migraine. Evaluation generally begins with a detailed history of the pattern, frequency, and possible triggers of attacks, followed by a neurological examination and, where appropriate, a review of existing imaging.

Dr. Almak also assesses and follows patients with epilepsy, a condition in which the choice of investigations and treatment depends on the type of seizures, how often they occur, and the individual's overall health. Dizziness is another area of her practice; because it can arise from several different causes, careful history-taking and examination are important in deciding which further tests, if any, are needed.

INTERNATIONAL PATIENTS

Dr. Almak consults in Turkish and English, and interpreters can be arranged for patients who speak other languages. Before a visit, the Acibadem international patient team coordinates the collection of prior reports and imaging, for example MRI or CT reports, laboratory results, previous operative notes, and discharge summaries, and arranges appointments and the hospital visit.
