CLINICAL FOCUS

Her areas of expertise are physiotherapy, physical medicine and rehabilitation, and functional rehabilitation. Physiotherapy in this setting involves an assessment of movement, strength, balance and daily function, followed by a program of exercise and hands-on techniques that is tailored to the individual.

Rehabilitation programs described elsewhere on this site, such as Neurorehabilitation and Stroke Rehabilitation, belong to the wider field of physical medicine and rehabilitation. Whether any particular program is appropriate for an individual patient is decided after a clinical assessment within the Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation unit, and not all programs are relevant to every patient.
