CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Coşkun's clinical work is centered on the three main areas of ear, nose and throat medicine. In the field of ear diseases, he assesses patients with ear-related complaints and advises on suitable examinations and management. His work in nose diseases covers conditions of the nose and its surrounding structures, while his work in throat diseases addresses disorders of the throat.

Dr. Coşkun also provides assessment for conditions affecting the head and neck region. Where a patient's symptoms involve this area, general information on head and neck cancer surgery is available on a separate page of this site. Whether any such treatment is relevant to an individual patient can only be determined after a clinical evaluation, a review of existing findings and a discussion of the results with the patient.
