CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Kutlu's clinical work covers a range of infectious diseases in adults. A substantial part of his practice concerns sexually transmitted infections, including syphilis, HIV and AIDS, and HPV. He also assesses and manages patients with hepatitis and shingles, as well as lower respiratory tract infections.

In addition to treating established infections, Dr. Kutlu advises on travel health and adult vaccination. This may include reviewing a patient's vaccination history, discussing vaccines that are relevant to a planned journey or to an individual's age and health status, and providing general guidance on reducing the risk of infection...
