CLINICAL FOCUS

Hamdi Kandemir's areas of expertise include sports injuries and knee injuries, where rehabilitation is directed at restoring movement, strength and function after injury. He also treats pelvic pain and pelvic functional disorders, restless legs syndrome and fibromyalgia, conditions in which a structured physical therapy program may form part of the overall care plan.

A significant part of his work relates to pain management, including facet joint syndrome. Physical therapy and rehabilitation for pain typically involves assessing the source and pattern of the patient's symptoms, evaluating posture, movement and function, and building an individualized program of exercise and therapeutic measures.
