CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Topuzlu's areas of expertise cover several of the more frequently encountered solid tumors. In breast cancer, she is involved in assessing patients at different stages of disease and in discussing the medical treatment options that may be appropriate for the individual case.

She also treats patients with pancreatic cancer and with colorectal cancers, encompassing both colon cancer and rectal cancer. As with the other tumor types she manages, the approach depends on the extent of disease, the results of pathology and imaging, the patient's general health, and any treatments already received. Dr.
