CLINICAL FOCUS

The core of Dr. Ağan's clinical work is prosthetic dentistry, the branch of dental care concerned with replacing or restoring missing or damaged teeth and supporting structures with fixed or removable prostheses. Her training and doctoral research were completed in this discipline, and prosthetic dental treatment remains her principal area of practice.

Dental treatment planning is a further part of her work. This involves assessing the overall condition of the teeth, gums and existing restorations, considering the patient's history and expectations, and setting out a sequence of treatment steps.
