CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Sönmezer's clinical work is centered on anesthesiology and reanimation. Within this field, her listed areas of expertise are advanced life support, intensive care treatment and palliative care. Advanced life support concerns the management of patients whose vital functions are acutely compromised and who require immediate medical intervention.

Palliative care is directed at patients with advanced or serious illness, with the aim of relieving symptoms and supporting comfort and quality of life. The suitability of any particular approach depends on the individual patient's condition, medical history and current findings, and is determined after clinical assessment.
