CLINICAL FOCUS

A large part of Dr. Cingöz's work is preventive. He carries out healthy child follow-up and newborn follow-up, arranges and interprets newborn screening tests, advises on age-appropriate childhood vaccinations and treats neonatal jaundice. Families of young infants may also consult him for infant colic.

He also treats acute illnesses that are common in childhood, in particular upper respiratory tract illnesses and childhood rash illnesses. These include chickenpox and measles, where the emphasis is on confirming the diagnosis, managing symptoms, monitoring for complications and advising the family on isolation and on protecting other...
