CLINICAL FOCUS

A large part of Dr. Can's practice is preventive and developmental care. This includes newborn follow-up in the first weeks and months of life, well-child care with monitoring of growth and development, and childhood vaccinations.

Dr. Can diagnoses and treats pediatric upper respiratory tract infections and other pediatric infectious diseases. She also follows children with iron deficiency and pediatric anemia, where evaluation typically involves a review of the child's diet and history together with laboratory testing, followed by treatment and monitoring as...
