CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Sözenoğlu's clinical work centers on perioperative anesthesia management. This involves evaluating a patient before surgery, selecting and administering an appropriate anesthetic approach together with the treating team, and monitoring the patient during and after the procedure.

Pain control is a further area of her practice. This includes managing pain around the time of surgery so that patients can be kept as comfortable as their condition allows during recovery. Her expertise also extends to critical care monitoring, meaning the close observation of vital functions in patients whose condition requires continuous attention.
