CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Kavak's clinical focus covers the conditions commonly seen in general cardiology. He evaluates and manages hypertension and hyperlipidaemia, two risk factors that can contribute to atherosclerosis over time. Patients with coronary artery disease, ischaemic heart disease and angina, as well as those who have previously had a heart attack, are assessed with attention to their current symptoms, overall cardiovascular risk...

He also sees patients with heart failure, heart valve disease and rheumatic heart disease, and those with atrial fibrillation and other arrhythmias. Because many of these conditions overlap, a consultation often involves considering several aspects of heart health together, such as blood pressure control, lipid levels, heart rhythm and pump function.
