CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Kayayurt's primary area of expertise is trauma care. In the Emergency Service, this involves the timely evaluation of patients who present after injury, including a structured clinical assessment, review of any available imaging and laboratory findings, and decisions about the appropriate next steps in management.

Beyond trauma, his professional background and publications reflect experience with a range of acute presentations seen in emergency medicine, including syncope, acute heart failure and unusual neurological or toxicological cases. Any treatment plan is determined after clinical examination and is tailored to the individual patient.
